

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT

Binding Death Benefit Nominations

WHO WILL GET YOUR BENEFIT IF YOU DIE?

In the event that you die without a valid reversionary beneficiary nomination or a valid binding death benefit nomination in place, REI Super (the Trustee) will be required to exercise its discretion and either pay your entire death benefit to your estate or decide on payment of your death benefit to any one or more of your Dependants.

A binding death benefit nomination is a binding direction from you to the Trustee to pay any death benefit to your estate or to one or more Dependants nominated by you and in the proportions that you have specified.

If you make a binding death benefit nomination and it is still valid and in effect at the event of your death, the Trustee will be bound to follow it and pay your death benefit to your estate or the Dependants you have nominated and in the proportions specified by you.

DEFINITION OF A DEPENDANT

The persons you nominate must be your 'Dependant' or legal personal representative (that is, the executor or administrator of your estate).

'Dependant' is defined as:

- your spouse as defined in the relevant legislation which generally includes:
 - your husband or wife
- another person (whether of the same sex or not) with whom you are in a registered relationship
- another person who, although not legally married to you, lives with you on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple
- your children as defined in the relevant legislation which generally includes:
 - your adopted child, step-child, or ex-nuptial children
 - your spouse's child
 - someone who is a child of you within the meaning of the Family Law Act 1975
- any other person who the trustee considers is wholly or partially dependent on you at the time of death, and
- any person you have an interdependency relationship with.

Two people have an interdependency relationship if:

1. they have a close personal relationship;
2. they live together,
3. one or each of them provides the other with financial support, and
4. one or each of them provides the other with domestic support and personal care.

An interdependency relationship will also exist between two people if they have a close personal relationship but do not meet the other criteria as listed above (2, 3 & 4) because either or both of them suffer from a physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability.

Any amounts paid to your legal personal representative would be distributed according to your will, or if you don't have a will, according to the laws of the State in which you resided at the date of your death.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR BINDING DEATH BENEFIT NOMINATION

You can change your binding death benefit nomination at any time. As your personal circumstances change, it's important to remember to keep your nomination up-to-date.

A binding death benefit nomination will be invalid if:

- it is not made using this Binding Death Benefit Nomination Form,
- this Binding Death Benefit Nomination Form has not been properly completed (for example, the nominated proportions are not clear or do not equal 100%, or the form has not been signed and witnessed correctly),
- at the time of your death, one or more of the persons nominated by you have died or is not your Dependant or legal personal representative,
- you were legally incapable of making the nomination, or
- the trustee is legally restrained or prohibited from paying your benefit payout to one or more of the persons nominated by you.

Binding death benefit nominations cease to have effect after a period of three years from the date you sign your nomination, unless revoked by you earlier. It would also cease to have effect if you are subject to a Court Order at the time of your death that prohibited you from making a binding death benefit nomination or required you to amend or revoke a nomination, or if (and for so long as) the Trustee is prevented from paying out your death payout in accordance with your nomination due to Family Law.
